FARMERS END THEIR SESSIONS

Election of Officers An Interesting Feature.

MR. HINES IS PRESIDENT

Closing Hours Devoted to Interesting Discussions --Education Paramount.

West Lafayette, Jan. 4—(Special)—At Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the Eastern Coshocton County Farmers' institute the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—James Hines.
Vice president—H. A. Caton.
Secretary—Seth Daugherty.
Treasurer—John Miskimen.
Executive committee—Peter Shaffer, Henry Linden, Stephen Loveless

The second day's session—Tuesday morning—was opened with music by the orchestra and a prayer by Rev Mr. Grabeal, pastor of the Presbyterian church

The Manure Supply, was discussed by C. R. Wagner and others. The value of manure is increased by applying evenly on grass lands. It will be taken up by plant tissue and in this way the grass roots holds in reserve the fertilizing elements, ready to be taken up by the crop —President James Hines opened the discussion on "When Shall We Cut Our Clover" He had been successful by clipping the first time just before the weed seeds begin to ripen. Others advocated clipping as soon as the wheat was cut.

The best time to cut clover for hay is while the clover is in full bloim; the fiber is not so hard and the stock eats it better.

In his address on soil, water and drainage, F. L Allen said the best results are secured when every grain of soil is surrounded by a film of moisture and the spaces between the

SENATOR CLAPP GETS REAL BUSY

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Washington, Jan. 4.—Senator Heyburn will introduce a bill providing for the regulation of corporations by a commission of five members. Four of the commissioners are to be appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate, and the fifth is to be the commissioner of the bureau of corporations, ex-officio.

NAN PATTERSON MAY GET BAIL

Strenuous Attempts by Attorney of Former Chorus Girl.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

New York, Jan. 4.—After a conference with District Attorney Jerome, Attorney Levy of counsel for Nan Patterson announced that he would attempt to have the former chorus girl released on bail, and that he would go into the supreme court with an application for a writ compelling the appearance of Miss Patterson in court on an application for bail. Mr. Levy said the district attorney has positively decided to retry Miss Patterson and will oppose her release on bail. Mr. Levy quoted Mr. Jerome as saying that he deemed it as his official duty to try Miss Patterson again, as the jury was evenly divided on the question of her guilt or innocence. The [illegible] attorney would not say how [illegible] he would be ready to proceed [illegible] the trial—it might be months. [illegible] Levy said the defense was ready [illegible]

STOESSEL STERN

Was Last to Consent to Surrender Of Fortress.

(By Cable to The Age.)

Tokio, Jan. 4—Japanese captured 25,000 prisoners at Port Arthur. The total number of the inhabitants is 35,000, of which 20,000 are sick.

Chefoo, Jan. 4. — Some interesting statistics concerning the defense of Port Arthur were brought here by the flotilla of Russian torpedo-boat destroyers Originally the army numbered 35,000 Seven thousand have been killed: 16,000 are wounded or sick, and 8,000 remained in the forts, of whom, however, 2,000 were unable to fight It is learned that when General Stoessel wrote to General Nogi regarding the surrender of the fortress he said "I have 8,000 men in the forts, and 6,000 of these are able to fight. If you do not accept my proposal these men will die fighting, but it will cost you three times their number to kill them." The number of officers killed was proportionately greater than in any battle known in history. This was due to the frequent lethargic conditions of the men, who, without food and without sleep, moved only when ordered by their officers The Russians estimate that the taking of the fortress has cost Japan $100,000,000.

Midshipman Klisorich, commanding a launch that escaped from Port Arthur, was interviewed He said: "The bombardment of the last day or so was terrific. Everybody remarked that even General Stoessel must see the futility of further resistance, when our guns are unable to reply We might have surrendered a month ago with the highest honor. That resistance has continued effectively since is

RUSSIA RESENTS PEACE TALK AS SALT APPLIED TO WOUNDS

All Classes Unite in Clamoring For Victory in Manchuria To Wipe Away Stain of Defeat.

(By Cable to The Age.)

St Petersburg, Jan 4.—The flood of telegrams from abroad bringing talk of peace arouses only resentment in official circles here, and even many liberals, who are urgently pressing the government for reforms, aroused by the dreadful story of heroism and suffering of the Port Arthur garrison, declare emphatically against any cessation of hostilities until Russia's honor is vindicated by a victory in Manchuria. Equal resentment is aroused by foreign criticism of General Stoessel for blowing up the ships in the harbor and destroying the town of Port Arthur when he could no longer defend them.

Accounts received from Port Arthur refugees of the straits to which the garrison was reduced before it surrendered are almost unexampled. It is quite true that some explosives were left wherewith the ships and some houses were destroyed; but the ammunition of many of the forts was absolutely exhausted. Some had not fired a shot for two days before the negotiations opened. The men had been living solely on rice for a month and many were suffering from scurvy. Even the effective soldiers were nearly all wounded.

General Stoessel's recent reports painting the harrowing picture of the depleted and exhausted garrison fighting on hopelessly, were posted on the bulletin boards and attracted enormous crowds, whose grief at the fall of the fortress was swallowed up by admiration for the heroic defenders. General Stoessel stated that towards the end of the year the supplies of ammunition completely gave out, there were 14,000 sick and wounded in the hospitals and 700 fresh casualties coming in daily. The general also said that at the end of the siege he had only 10,000 men under arms, the remainder of the original garrison having been either killed or wounded.

Mikado's Men Magnanimous Toward The Enemy.

(By Cable to The Age.)

Tokyo, Jan. 4.—The war office has made public the text of the articles of capitulation of the Port Arthur garrison, signed by the commissioners representing General Stoessel and General Nogi. A synopsis follows:

All Russian soldiers, marines, civil officials of the garrison and harbor are made prisoners, all forts, batteries, vessels, munitions, etc., are transferred to the Japanese in the condition in which they existed at noon of Jan. 3, violation of this clause to operate as an annulment of the negotiations, giving the Japanese army warrant to take free action, the Russian military and naval authorities are to furnish to the Japanese army an exhibit of all fortifications, underground and submarine mines, a list of military officers, of ships and the numbers of their crews, and of civilians of both sexes, with their race and occupations; and all public property, as buildings, munitions of war, etc, to be left in the present position pending arrangement for their transference. Officers of the army and navy are permitted to retain their swords and such of their personal property as is directly necessary for the maintenance of life, and with one servant each may, upon signing their parole not to take up arms during the continuance of the war, return to Russia. Noncommissioned officers and privates will be held as prisoners For the benefit of the sick and wounded Russians the sanitary corps and the accountants belonging to the Russian army and navy will be required to serve under the Japanese sanitary corps and accountants for such period of time as may be deemed necessary.

OHIO RIVER STEAMER IS BLOWN INTO FRAGMENTS

Harrowing Accident in Front Of City of Huntington.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Huntington, W. Va, Jan. 4. — The big towboat Defender, owned by the Pittsburg Towboat company, and returning from Cincinnati, where it had delivered a fleet of coal, blew up opposite this city. In a very few minutes the big steamer was a mass of flames, the fire even spreading to the 20 barges in tow. The number of dead at this hour is not known, but out of a crew of about 28 only 10 or 12 have been accounted for, and they are all seriously injured. The boat was in charge of Captain James Woodruff of Pittsburg. He was hurled into the river by the explosion. His injuries are not serious. Two dead bodies have been recovered.

LAND GRABS DISCOVERED TO BE THRIVING IN IDAHO

Government Finds Syndicate Which Trys to Acquire Rich Tracts--Oregon's Sensation.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Washington, Jan. 4.—An inspector of the interior department has been ordered to Idaho to investigate the charges made by an affidavit as to frauds in Idaho, and he is believed to have already begun his labors. No information on the subject could be obtained at the interior department, and Secretary Hitchcock will not discuss it. The papers in the case, however, have been forwarded to the inspector. It is expected that he will keep Secretary Hitchcock promptly advised of all developments.

In connection with the Idaho affidavits it is alleged that a syndicate exists formed to acquire valuable timber lands from the government. Other affidavits are expected shortly in the Idaho cases. Within the past three weeks over 1,500 patents on timber and homestead lands in the Roseburg (Ore.) land office, covering about 380,000 acres of land, have been held up at the interior department pending investigation. Roseburg is the home of Representative Herrmann, who was recently indicted by the grand jury in connection with alleged frauds.

Fresh indictments are being prepared in Portland, Ore., where the grand jury will resume its sessions during this week, and persons prominent in public life other than those whose names already have been implicated are involved. The mission of Oliver E. Pagin, the assistant attorney in the department of justice, who left here several days ago for Portland, is to assist in the framing of new indictments, a work at which he figured conspicuously during the postal investigation a couple of years ago.

THREE APPLEYARD ROADS THROWN IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

Companies Agree to Judgments Entered by Eastern Men.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 4 —Receivers for three Ohio traction companies were appointed by Judge Thompson of the United States court, as follows: The Central Market Street railway of Columbus; the Dayton, Springfield and Urbana Electric Railway company, and the Columbus, London and Springfield Railway company. Jacob H. Schmidlapp, president of the Cincinnati Union Trust company, and Myron H. Wilson, treasurer of the Cleveland Trust company, were appointed receivers. The preliminary proceeding to the application for receivers was the filing of a suit against each of the roads and the entry of immediate judgment with the consent of the representatives of the roads The General Electric company entered suit against the Central Market company and the Columbus, London and Springfield company. In the case of the Columbus, London and Springfield company the suit was for $5,982, to which the company agreed to judgment, and against the Central Market company the suit and judgment was for $10,688. Horace Power, an eastern capitalist, brought suit against the Dayton, Springfield and Urbana company for $10,410. The three roads are a part of the Appleyard system.

IS STRIKE ONCE MORE IN SIGHT?

Rumored That Local Miners May Soon Go Out.

DELAY IN ARBITRATION

Time Expires Jan. 10 And Men Are Anxious to See Definite Settlement.

The sentiment is becoming prevalent in mining circles that the strike at the Wade and Morgan Run mines will soon be "on" again.

The reason for this is that the time set for the arbitration board to get at work is nearly expired, the time being up January 10, and nothing is yet done—not even the third member of the board being chosen.

It is said that the representative of the miners, National Vice President Lewis and Mr. Roan, representing the mine owners are still at loggerheads on this choice It is said several Coshocton men have been suggested by each side but without arriving at any conclusion

The men at the mines are not working full time, on account of the inability of the company to secure flats for the coal. This week, it is learned, they have worked but one day

The general public has been of the opinion that all was over "but the shouting" and surprise will be general to learn that there is even a remote possibility of a resumption of hostilities.

It appears that the trouble lies now with the two members of the arbitration board Rather than let the strike be resumed with all the loss of time and work such a step involves, they certainly should be able to pick out some person on the broad map of the United States who would conscientiously and faithfully assist them in their work.

Lunch Room Cheats.

"There is not much use trying to have restaurant petty cheats arrested," said the manager of a lunch room in the busy downtown district of New York. "It is too much bother to go to court to appear against them, and we never get the money anyway. As a rule, cheats eat only a small amount, less than 50 cents' worth. The head waiter and the waiter have signals by which they can generally size a man up. They know in a minute whether a customer has really come away from the office without his money or is only bluffing.

"But there is one kind of beat we are all down on, and we'll put him in the cooler overnight every time we catch him. I mean the man who sits at a table, eats 40 or 50 cents' worth of roast or entree and then stops at the bar counter on his way out for a piece of pie and a cup of coffee. When he comes to the cashier's desk he presents nothing but the fifteen cent check for the pie and coffee. The only thing to do is to make an example of a man of that kind when we catch him."

A Dog Story.

They were talking about the intelligence of dogs, and after each man in the group had cracked up his own the Mount Airy man said: "I have a fox terrier named Troubles who not only seems to understand everything that is said to him, but who even takes in conversation of a general character that isn't addressed to him. Our servant girl has been suffering from a bad cold, and the other day, when she went out into the yard to hang up clothes, my wife noticed that the ground was very damp. 'Mary, you ought to have rubbers on out there,' she called from a window. Now, Troubles happened to overhear this remark, and what do you suppose that dog did? He ran to the hall, picked up a rubber shoe, hustled out into the yard and dropped it at the girl's feet. Then he hurried back and repeated the performance with the other shoe. Don't tell me dogs don't understand the English language."—Philadelphia Record.

First Done at Fontenoy.

The Black Watch distinguished itself at Fontenoy by a mode of warfare which at the time surprised both friend and foe, but has since become a recognized maneuver. Unable to get at the French infantry, who were strongly intrenched, and being therefore incapable of using their formidable broadswords with effect, the Forty-second highlanders, after marching to the ground to the music of their own bagpipes to take up a position, fired a volley and then "clapped down at full length on the ground to let the enemy's shots pass over them." The only exception to this prone attitude was the colonel, Sir Robert Monro, who was so fat and unwieldy that, had he lain down, it would have required a lever to lift him again.

Old English Tracts.

English tracts and sermons of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries are interesting on account of the strange phraseology—a kind of religious slang—which they reveal. Their titles exemplify this slang well, and the following are a few of them:

"The Spiritual Mustard Pot, to Make the Soul Sneeze With Devotion."

"The Snuffers of Divine Love."

"Crumbs of Comfort For Hungry Hoseas."

"Biscuits Baked In the Oven of Charity, Carefully Conserved For Chickens of the Church, Sparrows of the Spirit and Sweet Swallows of Salvation."

The Island of Malta.

On the island of Malta house rent is ridiculously cheap. Anywhere outside of Valetta an excellent seven roomed house can be had for $15 to $20 a year, while rates and taxes are unknown. The houses are built entirely of the cream colored stone of which the island is composed and which is so soft that it can be cut with a saw into blocks or slabs of any desired size or shape. So while the Maltese builder is digging up his foundation he is at the same time getting out the material for his walls, his flooring and his roof.

Charge Against a Minister.

New York, Jan. 4.—Rev Dr. Carlos Martyn, at one time pastor of the First Reformed church of Newark, N J., was arrested on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the tangled affairs of the defunct Abbey Press, of which he was at one time president Dr. Martyn's successor as president of the company was indicted by the grand jury last week on a charge similar to the one on which Dr. Martin was arrested The Abbey Press first came into public notice on Feb 7, 1903, when a fire occurred in their store rooms and offices at 114 Fifth avenue It is charged that the company was insured in excess of the value of its property and endeavored to collect insurance on supplies which were not burned While the investigation was on the firm failed.

After a Desperate Fight.

Clarksburg, W Va Jan 4—William Murphy, charged with cutting the throat of Mary Kluptner, 16, and seriously wounding the girl's father, sister and two young men who went to the rescue, was captured after a desperate fight Murphy was arrested by a constable and was being taken to jail when he jumped off the Pike street bridge into Elk creek. Standing chest deep in the icy water he defied arrest, and for over an hour held at bay a party of armed deputy sheriffs, constables and police officers. He was finally captured after many shots had been fired and he was beaten into insensibility. He was bleeding from many wounds and his recovery is doubtful. The girl is in a critical condition.

Bishop Talbot Confident.

Sunbury, Pa., Jan 4.—Colonel Clement of counsel for Bishop Talbot returned from Wilkesbarre, where he conferred with the other counsel of the bishop. In regard to the public statement promised Colonel Clement said: "Bishop Talbot deeply regrets that the peace of the church should be disturbed by the reopening of this long-settled controversy. He feels he will be completely justified in his course with regard to Irvine from beginning to end. He deems it inexpedient to make any further statement."

Abandoned by Herring.

St. John, N. F., Jan. 4. — Twenty-three American fishing vessels which have been seeking cargoes of frozen herring in Connaigre bay have been unable to obtain them. It is feared that this branch of the winter herring fishery will be a total failure, herring apparently having abandoned Placentia and Fortune bays, with their lesser inlets, which previously formed their favorite haunts.

Fire In the Palace.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—The empress was in her music room at the palace when a fire broke out in the room from a defective chimney. Little Princess Joachim and Oscar were with her majesty and all three watched the servants extinguish the flames, which they did before the city firemen reached the palace. The emperor, who heard of the incident after it happened, ordered his adjutant to make a special report on the subject.

Saw Service In Cuba.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Henry B. Looker, surveyor of the District of Columbia, who commanded Company H, First regiment, District of Columbia volunteer infantry, which rendered important service in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, is dead. He was a son of former Paymaster General Thomas H. Looker, United States navy, who survives him.

Damaged by Fire.

New York, Jan. 4.—The Clyde line steamship offices on the North river, in this city, were damaged in the amount of about $30,000 by a fire that proved one of the worst the firemen have had to fight this season, owing to the gale and the cold weather.

Murdered By Yaquis

Marauding Indians of Mexico Slay an American Citizen.

Story of the Ambush In Which a Former Pittsburg Man Was Killed While on a Prospecting Tour.

The recent murder of a prominent American citizen by Yaqui Indians of Mexico has been promptly avenged, thirteen redskins of the tribe being hanged, fifteen banished from the country, while remaining members of the murderous gang have been imprisoned.

The expeditious work of revenge was in the hands of President Diaz of Mexico, who, desiring to avoid complications with the United States government over the serious affair and seeking an opportunity to exhibit a friendly feeling toward Uncle Sam, determined to round up the murderers, whose victim was a well known American citizen, H N Martin, formerly of Wilkesbarre, Pa., who for four years previous to his death had held the important position of superintendent of La Barrauca mine of the Southern Pacific company in old Mexico.

MR. MARTIN ATTEMPTED TO RUN BACK.

President Diaz, with commendable energy, called out at once the Eleventh battalion, composed of the crack soldiers of Mexico. Thinking that there was no danger of pursuit or that they could not be convicted of the murder, the Indians when they were overtaken made no resistance, but hailed the troops in a friendly manner and when placed under guard submitted readily to examination. Nothing was discovered by questioning or by a search of the camp.

Then another method was tried, some of the suspected Indians being tortured until they agreed to speak, and in this manner those of the band guilty of the crime were discovered. Thirteen were hanged, fifteen others were banished, and all the others were imprisoned.

The murdered mine superintendent leaves a widow to mourn his untimely death. She resides at present in Wilkesbarre, Pa. Mr. Martin had started out on a prospecting tour over the mountains with two scouts and two teamsters and a servant.

Full details of the murder were received by his widow from Carlos L. Verdugo, teamster, who says:

"We left Ortiz on Sept. 7 at 9 in the morning, the party including Mr. Martin, Antonio Encinas, Carlos Verdugo, teamster of the wagon, and Ramon Pineda, his assistant, and two scouts, Joaquin Barcelon and Jose Maria Morales. At 11:30 a. m. the next day we were attacked by about forty Indians at the place called La Lista Blanca, one and a half leagues from Punta de Agua and San Marcial.

"Upon arriving at a place called El Chilicote, near the place of the assault, I called the attention of Mr. Martin toward a flock of buzzards right in front of us and over the same road.

"These birds always follow the Indians because the latter always kill animals to eat, and the birds follow them to take advantage of the refuse of the animals. For that reason it was to be supposed there were Indians at the place I showed Mr. Martin.

"For the sake of precaution Mr. Martin ordered that the two scouts should advance about twenty meters from the wagon and sent another man to whip the mules, he going at the rear guard at about two meters distance from the wagon. When I called his attention to the fact that there were probabilities of there being Indians at that place I asked him if it would not be better to return to Punta de Agua, because if they were Indians probably on the following day they would not be there, to which Mr. Martin replied that it was better to go ahead and hurry the mules, because by passing rapidly there would be no danger at all.

"So we did, but we had not got far when we were attacked from the four sides and in a very brushy place. The first shot came from the front, hitting Jose Maria Morales, who was the [illegible] [illegible] coming out through the right groin and destroying the thigh bone. At that moment Mr. Martin attempted to run back, when there appeared more Indians flanking our rear and preventing Mr. Martin going in that direction.

"We two on the wagon attempted to escape toward the right, which we found occupied with Indians, who received us with shots. We ran then to the left side, and the same thing happened to us, and, thinking that we were all lost, I made a last effort, succeeding in reaching a rampart formed by a creek, and slid down in water deep to my chest.

"The last time I ran I could see Mr. Martin going in the same direction from where the first shots were fired upon us, but I did not see him any more. I crossed the creek and went to report the case to Punta de Agua. The companion of the wounded man, Joaquin Barcelon, succeeded in escaping, taking along with him the wounded man and going toward a hill.

"A short time afterward the wounded man died, and Barcelon was compelled to leave the body on the ground and went to report to the ranch El Reparo, where there is a telephone line to Ortiz.

"When he returned, I joined him, the Eleventh battalion going to the place of attack, which we reached at 6 o'clock in the evening, but the authorities had previously taken away the wagon and the body of Mr. Martin, which was found, containing two shots, one in the left lung, passing through his heart, and the other in the left eye, going through his skull. Messrs. Johnson of San Marcial took charge of Mr. Martin's funeral.

"Mr. Martin's mozo as well as Ramon Pineda succeeded in an attempt to escape unhurt and gave notice to San Marcial. The other body was picked up and buried at Punta de Agua."

CHAPTER X.

"THE show troupe has come to town," said the tall, lank postmaster to every one who called, and the words passed from mouth to mouth, so that those who did not witness the arrival were soon aware of it. Punchinello and his companions never attracted more attention from the old country peasants than did the chariot and its occupants as on the day after their night in the woods they passed through the main thoroughfare of the village where they were soon to appear.

Dashing as in review before the rank and file of the village, the coach, with an extra flourish, rattled up to the hotel, a low but generous sized edifice, with a wide, comfortable veranda, upon the railing of which was an array of boots and behind them a number of disconsolate looking teamsters.

"You want to register, do you?" said the landlord in answer to Barnes' inquiry, as the latter entered the office.

"We don't keep no register, but I guess we can accommodate you, although the house is rather full with the fellers from the ark, or," he added, by way of explanation in answer to the manager's look of surprise, "Philadelphia freight wagons, I suppose you would call them. But we speak of them as arks, because they take in all creation. Them's the occupants making a Mount Ararat of the porch. They're downhearted because they used to liquor up here and now they can't, for the town's temperance."

"I trust, nevertheless, you are prepared for a season of legitimate drama," suggested Barnes.

The other shook his head dubiously. "The town's for lectures clear through," he answered. "They've been making a big fuss about show folks."

The manager's countenance did not fall, however, upon hearing this announcement; on the contrary, it shed forth inscrutable satisfaction.

No sooner were they settled in far from commodious quarters than preparations for the future were seriously begun, and now the drama proceeded apace, with Barnes the moving spirit. Despite his assertion that he was no scholar, the manager's mind was the storehouse of a hundred plays, and in that depository were many bags of gold and many bags of chaff. From this accumulation he drew freely, frankly, in the light fingered fashion of master playwrights and lesser theatrical thimble riggers.

Before the manager was a table—the stage—upon which were scattered miscellaneous articles, symbols of life and character. A stately saltcellar represented the leading lady, a pepper box the irascible father, a rotund mustard pot the old woman, a long, slim cruet the ingenue, and a pewter spoon the lover.

Barnes gravely demonstrated the action of the scene to Saint-Prosper, and the soldier became collaborator, "abandoning, as it were," wrote the manager in his autobiographical date book and diary, "the sword for the pen and the glow of the Champ de Mars for the glimmer of a kerosene lamp." And yet not with the inclination of Burgoyne or other military gentlemen who have courted the buskin and sock! On the contrary, so foreign was the occupation to his leaning that often a whimsical light in his eye betrayed his disinclination and modest disbelief in his own fitness for the task. "He said the way I laid out an act reminded him of planning a campaign, with the outriders and skirmishers before, the cavalry arrayed for swift service and the infantry marching steadily on, carrying with them the main plot or strength of the movement."

No sooner were the saltcellar and pepper box reunited, and the pewter spoon clasped in the arms of the loving cruet, with the curtain descending, than Barnes, who, like the immortal Alcibiades Triplet, could turn his hand to almost anything, became furiously engaged in painting scenery. A market place, with a huge wagon containing porkers and poultry, was dashed off with a celerity that would have made a royal academician turn green with envy. The Tiddly Wink inn was so faithfully reproduced that the painted bottles were a real temptation, while on the pastoral green of a rural landscape grazed sheep so lifelike that, as Hawkes observed, it actually seemed "they would eat the scenery all up." But finally sets and play were alike finished, and results demonstrated that the manager was correct in his estimate of such a drama, which became a forerunner of other pieces of this kind, "The Bottle," "Fruits of the Wine Cup," "Aunt Dinah's Pledge" and "Ten Nights In a Barroom."

In due time the drama was given in the town hall, after the rehearsals had been witnessed by a committee from the temperance league, who reported that the play "could not but exercise a good influence and was entertaining withal. We recommend the license to be issued and commend the drama to all Good Templars." Therefore the production was not only well attended, but play and players were warmly received. The town hall boasted a fairly commodious platform, which now served the [illegible] of a stage, and [illegible] footlights, the illuminating fluid having at that early date been introduced in several of the more progressive villages. Between the acts these yellow lights were turned low, and, running with the current of popular desire, the orchestra, enlarged to four, played by special request "The Old Oaken Bucket."

The song had just sprung into popularity, and in a moment men, women and children had added their voices to the instruments. It was not the thrill of temperance fanaticism that stirred their hearts, but it was the memories of the old pioneer home in the wilderness; the rail splitting, road building days; the ancient rites of "raisings" and other neighborly ceremonies; when the farmer cut rye with a cradle and thrashed it out with his flail; when "butter and eggs were pin money" and wheat paid the storekeeper.

"How solemnly they take their amusements in the north, Mr. Barnes!" exclaimed a voice in one of the entrances. "What a contrast to the south—the wicked south!"

The manager turned sharply.

"We are mere servants of the public, Mr. Mauville."

"And the public is master, Mr. Barnes! How the dramatic muse is whipped around! In Greece she was a goddess, in Rome a hussy, in England a sprightly dame, now a straight laced Priscilla. But you have a recruit, I see?"

"You mean Saint-Prosper?"

"Yes; and I can hardly blame him—under the circumstances!" murmured the land baron, at the same time glancing around as though seeking some one.

"Circumstances! What circumstances?" demanded the manager.

"Why, the pleasant company he finds himself in, of course," said the visitor easily. "Ah, I see Miss Carew," he added, his eye immediately lightening, "and must congratulate her on her performance. Cursed dusty hole, isn't it?" Brushing himself with his handkerchief as he moved away.

"What business has he behind the scenes anyway?" grumbled the manager. "Dusty hole, indeed! Confound his impudence!" But, his attention being drawn to the pressing exigencies of a first night, Barnes soon forgot his irritation over this unwarranted intrusion in lowering a drop, hoisting a fly or readjusting a flat to his liking.

The land baron meanwhile crossed to the semidarkness at the rear of the stage behind the boxed scene, where he had observed the young girl waiting for the curtain to rise on the last act. As she approached Mauville, who stood motionless in an unlighted spot, the pale glow played upon her a moment, white on her neck, in sheen on the folds of her gown, and then she stepped into the shadow, where she was met by a tall figure, with hand eagerly outstretched.

"Mr. Mauville!" she exclaimed, drawing back at the suddenness of the encounter.

His restless eyes held hers, but his greeting was conventional.

"Did I not say the world was small, and that we might meet again?"

"Of course, we are always meeting people and parting from them," she replied unconcernedly.

He laughed. "With what delightful indifference you say that! You did not think to see me again?"

"I hadn't thought about it," she answered frankly, annoyed by his persistence.

"I am unfortunate," he said.

Beneath his free gaze she changed color, as though the shadow of a rose had touched her face.

"You are well?" he continued.

"Yes."

"I need not have asked." His expression conveyed more, so much more she bit her lip impatiently. "How do you like the new part?"

"It is hard to tell yet," she answered evasively.

"You would do justice to any role, but I prefer you in a historical or romantic play, with the picturesque old costumes. I fear, however, I am detaining you."

He drew aside with such deference to permit her to pass that her conscience smote her and she was half minded to turn and leave him more graciously, but this impulse was succeeded by another feeling, ill defined, the prevailing second thought. Had she looked she would have seen that her fluttering shawl touched his hand and he quickly raised it to his lips, releasing it immediately. As it was, she moved on, unaware of the gesture. The orchestra, or, rather, string quartet, had ceased; Hans, a host in himself, a mountain of melody, bowed his acknowledgments; the footlights glared, the din of voices subsiding, and the curtain rose.

Remaining in the background, the land baron watched the young girl approach the entrance to the stage.

"How do you do, Mr. Mauville?" said a gay but hushed voice, interrupting his ruminations, and Susan, in a short skirt and bright stockings, greeted him.

"The better for seeing you, Mistress Susan."

"Pish!" courtesying disdainfully. "I don't believe you! You came to see [illegible] Well—lightly—she's already engaged."

"Really?" said the land baron.

"Yes. You understand? He follows her with his every glance," she added roguishly. Susan was never averse to straining the truth a little when it served her purpose.

"I should infer he was following her with more than his eyes," retorted the master of the manor dryly.

Susan tapped the stage viciously with a little foot. "She's a lovely girl," she continued, drawing cabalistic figures with the provoking slipper.

"You are piqued," he said, watching her skeptically.

"Not at all," quickly, startled by his blunt accusation.

"Not a little jealous?" he persisted playfully.

"Jealous?" Then, with a frown, hesitatingly: "Well, she is given prominence in the plays and"—

"You would not be subordinated if she were not in the company? Apart from this, you are fond of her?"

The foot ceased its tracing and rested firmly on the floor.

"I hate her!" snapped Susan, angered by this baiting. No sooner had she spoken than she regretted her outburst. "How you draw one out! I was only joking, though she does have the best parts and we take what we can get!"

"But she's a lovely girl!" concluded the land baron.

Susan's eyes flashed angrily.

"How clever of you! You twist and turn one's words about and give them a different meaning from what was intended. If I wanted to catch you up"—

"A truce!" he exclaimed. "Let us take each other seriously hereafter. Is it agreed?" She nodded. "Well, seriously, you can help me and help yourself."

"How?" doubtfully.

"Why not be allies?"

"What for?"

"Mutual service."

"Oh!" dubiously.

"A woman's 'yes!' "

"No," with affirmative answer in her eyes.

He believed the latter.

"We will seal the compact then."

And he bent over and saluted Mistress Susan on the lips. She became as rosy as the flowers she carried and tapped him playfully with them.

"For shame! La! What must you think of me?"

"That you are an angel."

"How lovely! But I must go."

"May I see you after the play?"

"Yes."

"Do not fail me or the soldier will not transfer his affections to you!"

"If he dared!" And she shook her head defiantly as she tripped away.

"Little fool!" murmured Mauville, his lips curling scornfully. "The one is a pastime; the other"—he paused and caught his breath—"a passion!"

But he kept his appointment with Susan, escorting her to the hotel, where he bade her good night with a lingering pressure of the hand and ordered his equipage to the door.

"Hadn't you better wait until morning?" asked the surprised landlord when the young patroon announced his intention of taking an immediate departure. "There are the barn burners, and traveling at night"—

"Have they turned footpads?" was the light reply. "Can't I drive through my own lands? Let me see one of their thieving faces"— And he made a significant gesture. "Not ride at night! These Jacobins shall not prevent me."

Barring the possible danger from the leaseholders, who were undoubtedly ripe for any mischief, the journey did not promise such discomfiture as might have been expected, the coach being especially constructed for night traveling. On such occasions between the seats the space was filled by a large cushion adapted to the purpose, which in this way converted the interior of the vehicle into a sleeping room of [illegible] neutralize the [illegible] stretched himself [illegible] couch and gazed through [illegible] at the crystalline lights of the [illegible] while thoughts of leaseholders and barn burners faded into thin air.

At dawn when he opened his eyes the morning star yet gleamed—with a last pale luster. At the manor, which the patroon shortly reached, the ever wakeful Oly-koeks was already engaged in chopping wood near the kitchen door. The growling of the hound at his feet called the caretaker's attention to the master's coming, and, driving the ax into an obstinate stick of hickory, he donned his coat, drawing near the vehicle, where he stood in stupid wonderment as the land baron alighted.

"Any callers, Oly-koeks?" carelessly asked the master.

"A committee of barn burners, mynheer, to ask you not to serve any more writs."

"And so give them time to fight me with the lawmakers! But, there, carry my portmanteau into the library and"—as Oloffe's upper lip drew back—"teach your dog to know me."

And, unpacking the valise, Mauville took therefrom a handsome French writing case.

"Thou wily limb of the law," wrote the patroon, "be it known by these presents thou art summoned to appear before me! I have work for you—not to serve any one with a writ, assign, bring an action or any of your rascally, pettifogging tricks! Send me no demurrer, but your own intemperate self."

Which epistle the patroon addressed to his legal satellite and dispatched by messenger.

German Steamer Departs.

Newport News, Va, Jan. 4. — The German steamship Adria sailed for Hamburg with two of the Lake submarine boats, which are said to be consigned to the Russian government. The delay in the Adria's departure has been explained. The vessel was held up by an agent for the underwriters, who insisted on the submarines being more securely fastened to the decks, fearing that rough seas might cause damage to the boats by dislocating the mechanical parts.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Girl's Frock Designed by Martha Dean

Never has the growing girl been so well taken care of in the matter of dress as this season. The quaint and picturesque features that characterize the fashions of the grownups are emphasized in those of the growing girls. In the charming model shown here the shoulder is brought well down over the arm, forming a sleeve cap which gives a decidedly old fashioned air. The waist is slightly gathered at the neck edge and may be worn in guimpe style if desired. The skirt is the popular flounced style and is most becoming to growing girls. The dress is as pretty made up in linen or wash goods as in the more expensive weaves. A charming development would be of natural color pongee, trimming the dress with oriental bands. Lawn, linen, madras or silk combine well to the mode.

Material required for medium size, 6 yards 36 inches wide.

Pattern No. 4543.

WHAT ABOUT THE CANAL?

That is the paramount question. ...a couple of thousand dollars going ...stand in the way of the permanent retention of Ohio's great artificial water way?

New York is expending $101,000,000 improving her great "ditch" A new republic has been born and the United States has taken on a vast expense to dig a ditch through a neck of land separating two oceans and the railroad interests fought the project to the last hill.

After years of struggle the last state legislature finally agreed to spend $200,000 on improving a portion of the Ohio canal. If the water users along the canal would increase their rentals to $30,000 annually. Of this sum $2900 is lacking

The big renters of water rights have come forward manfully but the small users—who have been securing power at exceedingly small cost—have stood back. Superintendent ...eidel says that if they came forward relatively as the larger users have, there would be no doubt of the canal's improvement.

He says many of them appear to think it is a game of bluff and that they will get the water anyway

The time for a game of bluff has passed.

It means not only the improvement of the canal but the canal itself.

If the board of public works falls down this time no future legislature will listen to their most pathetic appeal. The canals will pass into oblivion and the waterway will become a line of trolley roads.

The federal government is beginning its struggle with freight rates. What better holds down freight rates than a modern canal?

If improved as planned, the Ohio canal will be a modern one

The canal means much to Coshocton—Roscoe is to all practical intents, Coshocton. It means power—cheapest kind.

It means, after improved, cheapest kind of freight.

It means splendid factory sites—and factory sites are becoming scarce close to Coshocton.

The canal means added prosperity Coshocton should do all it can to prevent its abolishment.

The time is now.

THE NOBLEST RUSSIAN

General Stoessel is heralded from all four quarters of the world as a world's hero and the noblest Russian of them all.

But that is where the discrepancy creeps in. He is not a Russian at all, but a German. Stoessel is about ...0 years old and was born in Saxony, serving throughout the war with France in the German army. At the close of hostilities he went to St. Petersburg and soon became a soldier of the Czar, being placed in command of a regiment of Siberian rifles. He has gradually risen, and in the Chino-Jap war he was in charge of certain Russian forces in the far east.

He is a doughty old warrior, unpopular in social circles and caring little for frivolities. With his men he is a demi-god and they fairly worship him A favorite saying of his is "What order can be done—I can do it myself." And he never asks his men to do what he would not readily attempt.

Stoessel has certainly shown traits that no other "Russian" commander has shown in this war. Russia's greatest hero is not a Russian

ROSCOE'S "LOST" PETITION FOUND BUT NOT PRESENTED

Village Council Takes Steps Toward Lighting The Streets---Scrap on School Funds.

The regular meeting of the Roscoe council was held Tuesday evening.

Charles Milligan and Harrison who succeed Anderson Milligan and John Stipes, and Robert Greer, who succeeds himself were present as were all the other members. At the meeting Monday evening when the new councilmen were sworn in I. D. Schott was elected pro tem of the council to succeed E. C. Gleason. Mayor Carhart has not yet appointed the various committees for the new year but will do so at the next meeting.

The petition, which has been circulated for the purpose of abolishing the corporation and which has been mysteriously missing for the past few days, was not presented to the council although it has been unearthed from seclusion again.

The new code provides that the corporation treasurer shall take charge of the public school funds Therefore,armed with the opinion of Prosecuting Attorney James Glenn, the corporation treasurer. Remick Randles, called upon James Bell, one of the retiring members of the school board and asked for the school funds.

Mr. Bell, it is said, became greatly incensed and going to his safe brought forth the missing petition and placed his name on it along with about a hundred others.

What the outcome of the matter will be is uncertain but enough names have already been secured to secure an election but whether the proposition to abolish the corporation will go through when submitted to a vote remains to be seen.

An ordinance was passed by the council to pay the balance due J. S. Reed, as marshal and street commissioner, for the year ending January 1

The question of lighting the streets of the town was discussed. Correspondence has been opened with the natural gas people and also with the electric light company. At present there are no lights of any kind and it has been decided to take some step in this direction

Mow cowald nature by letting the air into the soil, this, besides be needful to plant life, buds to lessen the size of the grain. In order to do this, the speaker advised under drainage, placing the tile in most soils about four feet deep, the soil then absorbs all of the rainfall and does not become packed as it otherwise would.

Tuesday Afternoon.

After the election of officers as given in the foregoing the routine work was resumed the first number being a selection by the orchestra.

The next was a paper given by Dr. W. A. Daugherty on "Tuberculosis as it relates to Man and Animals." He spoke of the different kinds, all of which are due to a specific germ. This germ may be carried into different parts of the body. The disease is the same in man as in animal and may be transmitted from man to animal or vica versa. It is transmitted from animals to man through milk, meat, etc. In order to prevent the spread of this disease, have all dairy cows pass a tuberculosis test, at least once a year, and all stock also pass this test before being slaughtered.

He advocated a state hospital for consumptives and that all those suffering from his disease be cared for in this institution or otherwise isolated, the same as in other contagious diseases. They should avoid public drinking cups and expectorating on the streets should be prohibited.

Music by orchestra.

C. R. Wagner talked on "The Boy and the Farm."

He said, "Start him out in life right. He needs an education as much as any other boy. Give him reason to have perfect confidence in his parents. Encourage him. Give him every advantage possible. Bring him up so that he will not be ashamed of himself or his calling."

Mrs. Thrapp then read an entertaining paper on The Farmer's Wife.

After music by the orchestra F. L. Allen gave an address on Humus and Soil Bacteria.

Humus is the decay of vegetation in the soil. He said, the trouble with many so called warn out farms was the lack of humus in the soil. Nutrition is the same in plant life as in the aurmal world.

The only difference being in that fact that plant food must be digested outside of the plant itself. And this is done by the germ life in the soil. Therefore soil bacteria is necessary to plant life, and these germs or bacteria feed on humus. And since the size of the crop depend on size of micro organism in soil, allow all vegetable matter possible to decay on the land.

After a few closing remarks by the president and music by orchestra, the institute adjourned to meet again in one year.

JAY TAYLOR, Secretary.
MY NAME. ....
MY ADDRESS. ....
MY DRUGGIST. ....
I accept a bottle free. I have never used Life Plant.

I offer YOU a three weeks' treatment as I did Mr. Mack, of Jefferson, Ohio. It cured him. It will cure you. Read what he says for Life Plant.

Jefferson, O., Nov. 29, 1904.
The Life Plant Co., Canton, O.

Gentlemen: This is to certify that Life Plant will do almost a miracle in curing cancer and other diseases it is recommended to cure. I was troubled with a bad cancer on my face and it got so bad my family began to be alarmed about it, for it was eating my face so fast I wouldn't have had any face by this time if it had not been for Life Plant. Inside of three months after I commenced to take Life Plant the cancer was all healed up perfectly sound, nothing but a scar left; nothing but Life Plant did it and I feel ten years younger than I did before I took Life Plant. I am over 78 years old. My wife was troubled with Catarrh and Sciatic Rheumatism and couldn't get across the room without the use of two canes when we both began to take Life Plant, and when we had taken six bottles my wife had no use for the canes and catarrh was all gone, so you see what Life Plant has done for us both. I praise Life Plant to every one, for it is the most perfect medicine ever brought before the people. Yours truly, I. S. MACK.
R. F. D. No. 3, Jefferson, Ohio.

To verify the above statement you can write to Mr. Mack, inclosing a two cent stamp for reply.

THOUSANDS CURED BY LIFE PLANT

The testimonial I give here is just one of the thousands I have received. They are all voluntary statements. If Life Plant will cure cancer (which is caused by Uric Acid poison in the blood) the most stubborn of all diseases, it will cure any disease that is caused by an excess of Uric Acid poison in the blood. It has never failed to cure any case of RHEUMATISM, CATARRH, ECZEMA, CANCER, GOUT, SCROFULA, KIDNEY, LIVER, BLADDER or STOMACH trouble. Some of these cures are miraculous; some who were bed-ridden have been able to walk after taking three bottles; some who have been cripples for years have thown away their canes and crutches; others who have not worked for years, not able to earn their daily bread, have not missed a day's work since taking Life Plant. Even this may not convince you that Life Plant does all I claim it will do, but to prove what I say is true. I will give you a full $1.00 bottle to try. I do not offer a SAMPLE as many others do, but I give you absolutely free a three weeks' treatment. I do not guarantee that one bottle will cure you, but I do guarantee that Life Plant will cure you quickly and permanently. I do not ask you to buy a bottle to try—I give you a bottle for the asking and I know it will do you much good; it may cure you entirely, for many have been cured by using just one bottle. Your doctor will charge you for medicine, whether it does you any good or not. I give you a full dollar bottle and it don't cost you a penny. Don't you think I am fair? I sympathize with you; I know how you suffer, and I want to cure you. I give you this one bottle to convince you that Life Plant is the very medicine you need. I know you want to be cured; I know you have spent a great deal of time and money and received no benefit or cure. I could not afford to give away thousands of bottles if it did not cure A trial don't cost anything, so send today for it. I want to make you well and happy, and I want to begin now. One dose starts you on the road to recovery.

HOME B. & L. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTS OFFICERS

The board of directors of the Home Building and Loan association held a meeting in the office of Secretary W. A. Himebaugh Tuesday evening. The report of the secretary for the past six months was read and approved, and a dividend of 2 1-2 per cent. was declared for the six months.

The company has been very prosperous during this period and the demand for loans has been great because of the building and improving which has been going on in the city. The demand for money promises to be even greater than ever this spring on account of the improvements to be made. The capitalization of the company at present is about $118,000 and this with a surplus of $4,000 raises the amount to $122,000.

Immediately after directors had met the stockholders held a meeting and elected the following board of directors:

J. C. Fisher
W. R. Pomerene
Ed, H. Wilson
M. Q. Baker
A. J. Miller
Alex P. Stewart
F. E. Pomerene
T L Montgomery
W. A. Himebaugh

Wednesday the new board of directors met and organized by re-electing the following officers:

President, J. C. Fisher
Vice president, W. R. Pomerene
Treasurer, A. J. Miller
Secretary and counsel, W. A. Himebaugh

RUNAWAY BRIDE AND GROOM REACH COSHOCTON

A runaway bride and groom are the happiest guests at the Park hotel today They arrived in Coshocton at noon and were resting after three days of strenuous experiences when an Age reporter called on them shortly after they reached the hotel To cap the climax the train which brought them here collided with a wagon-load of nitro-glycerine near Dennison but they came out of it all triumphantly

The groom is Mr. Eugene Wells, and the bride was until Monday evening Miss Maggie Dunlay. Both are well known young people of Wheeling Mr Wells is a cigar salesman and a prominent Elk.

They ran away from Wheeling Monday and were married in Wellsville Mr Wells stated that his parents were opposed to his marrying Miss Dunlay because she is a poor girl. He is a bright young man and talks very interestingly of their experiences and their future.

The two young people have been "keeping company" for eight years and if ever there was love between two youths they certainly possess it They came to Coshocton to join the brides brother, Mr. Will Dunlay, the accomplished Wheeling boy soprano, who is singing with the Real Widow Brown company. The young couple will return tomorrow morning to Bellaire to make their home. Mr Wells will open a cigar store there.

No Dance Next Week.

On account of the show every night next week the Shepler-Newton orchestra will not hold its next dance until two weeks from tonight or January 18 Over forty couples enjoyed the dance given last night the music being exceptionally good The orchestra was strengthened by James Hagans, who has taken his old place with them.

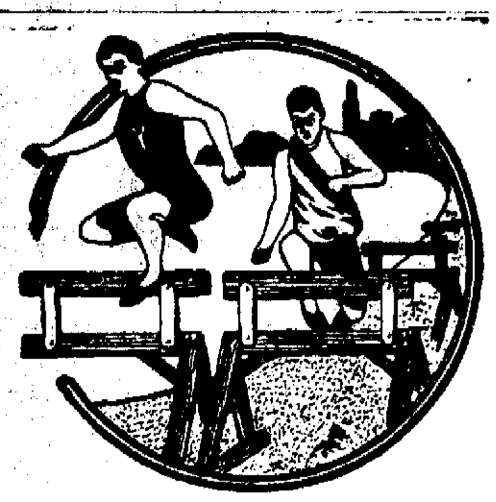
[illegible]NAP-SHOTS TAKEN AT PORT ARTHUR

(By Spl. Hypnotic Suggestion.)

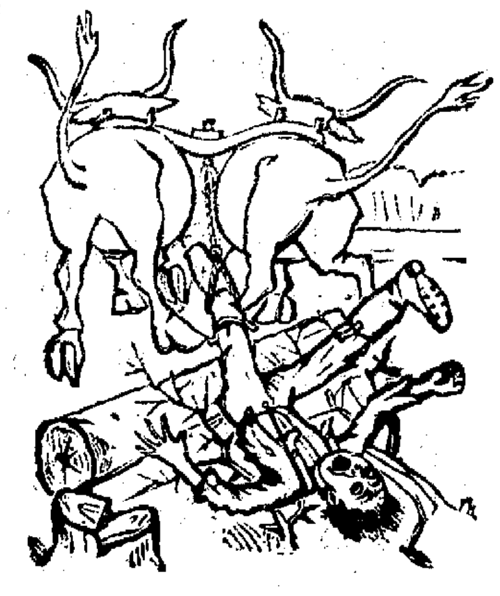
Cheefoo, Jan. 4—Prof. Santos-Runabout arrived here today in his airship from Port Arthur where he has been hovering for the last three weeks While there he took a number of views of the town and scenes about it, which are made public for the first time and entirely discredit the pages of pictures many of the city saffron tinted journals have been filled with for the last year. These pictures were taken on the spot—or spots—and as they were taken from the baloon, come high. They will be used as moving pictures by the American Skinograph company of New York and Paris this winter. The following film gives a graphic picture of the stirring scenes at the port:

Residents of Port Arthur escaping across the ice through a rain of Jap shells. (See the rain.)



Russian soldiers on their morning stroll after a bit of vodka.

The pull that almost broke Hi Low Jack.



The way the price of meat advanced during the last week.

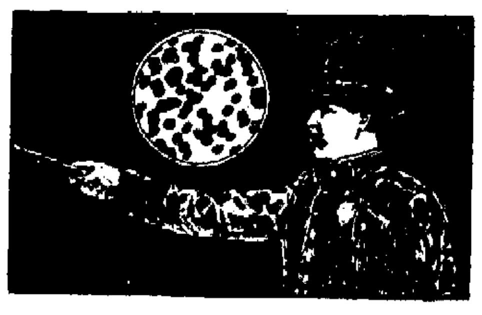
Dramatic and historic incident when Stoessel and Nogi met down by the warehouse.

Constipation and piles are twins. They kill people inch by inch, sap life away every day. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will positively cure you. No cure no pay. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets.
C. E. Anderson.

Jap soldier rescuing commissary biscuit from the bay.

Russian embassy's cook about to fire a bean shooter.

The Old Guard rounding up for the morning attack on tthe canteen.



The stars seen by Corporal Rushthecanski when hit by a Japanese lantern.

Scene when the first mail steamer arrived at Port Arthur after capitulation. The mail carrier is attired in summer garments.

Gen. Nogi on his way after an egg-nog.

Celebrated Lady Correspondent at Cheefoo, Madam Stringer, mourning because she is out of a job.

One reason the Japs hesitated so long about entering the town.

Native Manchurian chieftain looking for a highball.

Gen. Kissemoffovitch getting a hand-out.

Stirring scene just before the surrender throwing up earth works.

Two Chinese refugees entering Cheefoo.

The only Russian battleship found by the Japs when they went into the beleaguered town.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

JAMES R. GARFIELD, COMMISSIONER OF CORPORATIONS.

James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, who has won golden opinions by his first annual report, in which he advocates the requirement of licenses from corporations engaged in inter-state commerce, is the younger son of the late President Garfield. He is 39 years of age, a graduate of Williams college and has been a lawyer at Cleveland, O., and a national civil service commissioner.

Flyer Jumps the Track.

Sedalia, Mo., Jan. 4.—Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train No. 5, known as the "Katy flyer," which left St. Louis for Galveston and San Antonio, was wrecked a mile and a half east of Rochefort, Mo. The engine, baggage car, combination car and two coaches were turned over into a ditch. Five persons were more or less seriously injured. The locomotive jumped the track.

Dash of Prisoners.

New York, Jan. 4.—During an evidently designed stampede of the officers' horses at Fort Hamilton, four prisoners escaped from the guards at the post. One of them was recaptured and the other three are believed to have perished in the icy waters of the harbor. The recaptured prisoner is Paul Berg, who was taken in custody in Manhattan by a detail sent out from the fort.

The Real Widow Brown.

Unlooked for complications frequently arise when people tired with love's young dream seek a congenial partner through the medium of the matrimonial papers This is what happens in the case of The Real Widow Brown, a clean, farcial play bubbling over with jollity, which will be seen at the Sixth Street theatre tonight. In most plays the characters ar made to bring about the situations which are strained and unnatural, but in Mr. A. Q. Scammon's latest bid for public recognition old lines have been ignored. The real widow is impersonated by an audacious young man while another gay young man "makes up" and assumes to be an old deacon who believes he has found his affinity through the "Matrimonial Times," and with whom he has been in correspondence. The mistaken [illegible] furnish excellent opportunities for fun and merriment. The situations and climaxes are irresistibly funny, and the combined efforts of a clever company of farceurs to amuse and create a vast deal of laughter is crowdned with success. The music is bright and up to date the costumes artistic, and the singing and dancing specialties are uncommonly good.

Catchy Songs Tonight.

The following songs are included in the program of The Real Widow Brown tonight:

Oysters and Clams.
Rare Old Bird
Gavotte
Tell Me, Pretty Maiden
Navajoe
Jack Hayman, The German Humorist.
Miss Minnie Daly, Title Medley of Popular Airs.
A Night at the Circus
Doubleface Dance
Little Doings
Gondolier
The Maiden and the Jay

The Balky Horse.

The announcement of the coming of "David Harum" is certain to arouse feelings of pleasure in advance to countless people who are familiar with Westcott's book. The play taken from the novel has been the principal success of the past two years in the thearical work and it has known an amount of popularity that has surprised even the most sanguine of its well wishers. The play is said to be a delightful reproduction of all of the amusing scenes so aptly and cleverly described in the book. The horse trade between Harum and the sanctimonious Deacon Perkins comes early in the play and its humor is irresistible. Later the deacon is seen behind the balky horse during a heavy shower of rain and this scene is described as being one of the most amusing that has been unfolded in years.

Nebraska Legislature.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 4.—The Nebraska legislature met at noon. In the house George L. Rouse of Hall county was elected speaker and in the senate W. H. Jennings of Thayer county was elected president pro tem.

Burrows Succeeds Himself.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 4.—The renomination of United States Senator J. C. Burrows for a third term was agreed upon by acclamation by joint caucus. The house caucus nominated Sheridan F. Master for speaker.

New Irish Land Loan.

London, Jan. 4.—The Bank of England announced that it is prepared to receive tenders for a new issue of the Irish land loan, amounting to $30,000,000, and of the same rank as the stock already issued.

Ice Sport Reigns Supreme

Ice Boating Now In Full Swing on Eastern Rivers and Western Lakes. Activity Among Skaters. Hockey Is a Prime Favorite.

Ice boating, hockey and figure and speed skating are now reigning throughout the country in the stead of baseball, football, tennis and yachting.

And how these winter sports cause the eyes to sparkle, the blood to tingle, the nerves to freshen and the muscles to get new energy! Truly the winter is the time for the making of men. Let the women and girls have torrid, torpid summer for themselves.

Winter is king, and may he reign as long as men sigh in love and as firmly as a William the Conqueror or a Frederick the Great.

Ice Boating.

Ice boating is now in full swing on the rivers of the east and the lakes of the west. In New Jersey the Shrewsbury has been covered by fleets of triangular winged specters scudding before icy gales, and the same may be said of the Hudson river, in New York.

On the lakes of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois the ice yachtsmen have prepared their craft for stirring battles, and the sweet music of clanging, banging, grinding steel runners is heard on every side.

The Speed Skaters.

The skating world, too, is rife with active speed merchants preparing for coming championship contests

The American championship meet will be notable in many respects. The Canadians are after satisfaction and our titles. G. Bellefeuille of Winnipeg is one of the Canucks that are confident of worsting our best men. Bellefeuille is an ex-champion, and he chafes under what he considers the ignominy of having the two little letters e and x before his name.

BELLEFEUILLE, THE GREAT WINNIPEG (CANADA) SPEED SKATER.

So look out for the wiry, strong legged, green suited Canadian boys!

Bellefeuille's Advice.

Bellefeuille gives the following advice to beginners:

He who would become an able speed skater must determine to practice faithfully and to keep himself in good physical condition.

Early defeats should not discourage the beginner. Perseverance is the greatest aid to success, and men have forged to the fore after spending years among the lesser lights. It is highly important that every novice should learn correct form. A style suited to individual peculiarities or characteristics [illegible] results in opposition to a style of skating copied bodily from some one else. At the same time much benefit can be had through imitating the leading skaters' methods to some extent.

IRVING BROKAW, THE NOTED NEW YORK FIGURE SKATER.

The beginner ought first to make sure that he is not contracting a faulty pose and an incorrect stroke. He had best watch the maneuvers of the well known performers and ask their advice on matters not entirely clear to him.

A jerky, irregular stroke is to be avoided. The long, strong glide, with balance well held, proves more advantageous. The man that falls into the habit of cutting short his strokes, except when circumstances warrant such procedure, tires unnecessarily the muscles of his legs, affects the wind and loses the perfect self control that is at all times a valuable help. Besides, when strokes are short and jerky the racer fails to derive the full benefit from the power expended.

Be content with gradual progress and skate as much as possible in the open air. Rink or indoor skating is naturally of much value, as it is available when the lakes, ponds or rivers are not frozen or cleared of heavy falls of snow. Do not patronize rinks, however, when outdoor ice is at hand. Skating in the open has an exhilaration and adds an incentive to speedy work that is lacking under cover.

Among the figure skaters great interest is manifested in the approaching national championship meet to occur in the St. Nicholas rink, New York, in February.

Irving Brokaw, a competitor in several championship meets, is thought to have a splendid chance to win this season.

However, as Brokaw does not represent the New York Athletic club, his chances are diminished, because men wearing the emblem of that organization seem to have "first call" on the title.

Outdoor Versus Indoor Hockey.

It is to be hoped that the day will come when the popular game of ice hockey will be played with some semblance of regularity on outdoor sheets of ice.

As matters now stand the game is developed scientifically only in rinks. Ice rinks are few and far between. Consequently but an extremely limited number of people can witness contests.

A Weird Mixture.

The outdoor game of hockey, except when played by regular teams representing recognized clubs (these games are woefully few in number) is as weird a mixture as ever a person saw. The game resembles the mince pie haunted dream of nine-year-old Willie on Christmas night. Any number of players take part, and the implements are as fantastic as the military equipment of some of the Revolutionary soldiers.

Rampageous Youth.

Young America is a natural born foe to organization. Regularity of any sort, particularly in sport, worries him into nervous prostration. Consequently, when playing hockey on a lake or creek with "the bunch," his only thought is to "get in the game," with little thought as to whose game or what game it is. This democratic spirit is all very fine to foster a spirit of independence in young and unwashed America, but it is all very demoralizing to hockey.

The outdoor game has always suffered from lack of organization.

The writer has seen outdoor hockey contests in which from ten to fifteen players competed on a side, whereas the official number is but seven. Under the first named conditions the sport is little more than a hurly burly game of "hit your neighbor's shins before he hits yours," and the wonder is that the list of fatalities does not make the football death roll look like a snowball in the tropics.

Sprinter F. M. Sears.

F M. Sears, the New York A. C. sprinter, who graduated from Cornell university, was one of the fastest men America ever saw. His greatest fault was a total disregard for training instructions. As it was, Sears ran 100 yards in 9 4-5 seconds and 220 yards in 21 2-5 seconds.

Buys Park Antarus.

E. H. Cole of St. Louis has purchased from E. Knell, Carthage, Mo., the two-year-old colt Park Antarus, by Antarus, dam Bonnie Doon, $25%.

scarcely less than a [illegible]. [illegible] mere handful of broken-down [illegible] surrender, and a debris-strewn [illegible] which the Japanese gain. Not one [illegible] Port Arthur's magnificent public [illegible] remain."

Russian officers vividly describe the terrible conditions that exist in the hospitals at Port Arthur, which they say were worse than those of the battlefield. They relate how the Sisters of Charity, accustomed as they are to such ordeals, sickened under those conditions and fainted at their posts because of lack of nourishment.

Russians who have arrived here claim to see a blessing in disguise in the fall of Port Arthur. They say that the Russian second Pacific squadron can now wait until it is overwhelmingly reinforced, and that General Kuropatkin will be able to manage his campaign with a single eye to his own success, without making any false steps animated by a desire to relieve General Stoessel.

Attitude of France.

Paris, Jan. 4.—Inquiries at the foreign office relative to the mediation reports brought out a positive and specific denial that any such movement is imminent. In particular the report attributing to France an intention to sound the European powers toward securing joint support for mediation is categorically denied. The officials reiterate that no steps whatever will be taken until one of the parties formally requests good offices. The authorities here have not received anything indicating that either of the belligerents desires mediation. The Russian embassy made the following statement: "Although the embassy has not yet been officially informed of the capitulation of Port Arthur, it has the certainty that this dolorous event, so long expected, will not modify in any way whatever the resolutions of the imperial government concerning the conduct of the military operations."

Destination, Vladivostok.

Paris, Jan. 4—Captain Clado, who was with Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron at the time of the Dogger bank affair, and who later was detached and ordered to St. Petersburg, where he was placed under arrest for persistent agitation of the proposition to bring the Russian Black sea fleet through the Dardanelles in spite of treaty obligations, declared that Admiral Rojestvensky never intended to approach Port Arthur but would seek to enter Vladivostok, which place it was of the utmost importance to defend.

Warships Disarming.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Two cablegrams have been received at the state department from Mr. Fowler, the American consul general at Chefoo, in which he says that the Russian torpedo boats arrived there and anchored inside of the native shipping, and are now disarming. The crews are being quartered in native barracks. Of the seven Russian destroyers reported to have left Port Arthur two are thought to have gone to German ports and one is missing.

Peace Talk In Japan.

Tokyo, Jan. 4.—Some of the foreign diplomats here believe that there will be an eary renewal of efforts looking to the securing of peace. Outwardly the Japanese government gives no indications of its desires in that direction, but it is known that it is prepared to discuss the question and to make terms which are characterised as reasonable.

Supplies For Sick.

Weihaiwei, Jan. 4.—The British steamer Andromeda sailed for Port Arthur this morning carrying a large quantity of medical supplies, appliances and comforts for the Russian sick and wounded.

OHIO NEWS

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Doctor Chadwick's Request.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 4.—Dr. Chadwick called at the county jail and asked that he be permitted to see his wife privately in order to talk over their affairs. The doctor was informed that it would be necessary to get a permit to that effect from United States Marshal Chandler. Marshal Chandler refused the request unless an officer was present.

City Officials Indicted.

Toledo, O., Jan. 4—John Stollberg, Milton Taylor and John Nolan, members of the Toledo board of public service and prominent citizens, were indicted by a special grand jury on three counts, each charging them with being interested in selling supplies to the city. In Ohio this is a penitentiary offense.

Cause Not Known.

Norwalk, O., Jan. 4.—Daniel Brombaugh, a prominent and wealthy resident of Plymouth, this county, committed suicide. His lifeless body was found hanging in his barn. He leaves a wife and five children. The cause is not known.

Business Block Consumed.

Paulding, O., Jan. 4.—Fire destroyed a three-story frame business block on the east side of the public square, entailing an estimated loss of [illegible]. The fire is traced to an overheated flue.

A New Year's Greeting

And an Announcement

This is to wish you a happy and prosperous New Year and to announce our Sixth Annual Reduction Sale. Those who have taken advantage of these January reduction sales have learned the meaning of this announcement. We take this method of sharing profits with our old customers and introducing ourselves and our clothes to new ones.

January is usually a dull business month, but we are going to make it a busy one. We are going to keep our workmen busy, because busy workmen make contented ones, and contented workmen means good workmen.

Suits and Overcoats that were heretofore priced $22, $25, $28, are now $20. Those that were $30, $35, $40, are now $25. Trousers that were priced $6, $6.50, $7, $7.50, are now $5. Those that were priced $8, $9, $10, $11, $12, are now $6. The same care, taste and expertness, the same exclusive materials, the same genteel style, the same fit and finish that have given "HARRIS" garments their high place in the esteem of good dressers, will enter into every garment made during this Price Reduction period.

We thank you for courtesies shown heretofore, and take pleasure in extending to you the advantage of these Price Reductions for January.

NERVY THIEF MADE GRAB FOR PURSE ON LADY'S ARM

Hid Face Under Umbrella And Struggled To Gain Pocketbook---Exciting Episode.

Mrs George Kunkle and Mrs. Patrick O'Toole, both of whose husbands are employed by the Coshocton Glass company and who reside on Locust street, met with a very nervy stranger while on their way home from the theatre Monday evening.

At the corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets they noticed a man carrying in one hand a raised umbrella, although it was not raining and in the other hand a grap.

Mrs. O'Toole was carrying her baby and in her other hand had a bag purse. As the two ladies passed the strange looking man, he made a grab at Mrs O'Toole's purse but she held on to it and Mrs. Kunkle took the child while her companion struggled with the thief for her purse.

Her screams alarmed the thief who let go his hold on the purse and made his escape There is no clue to his edentity The incident occurred about eleven o'clock.

SALVATION ARMY HAS OPENED THE DOOR FOR MANY

The Salvation Army special meetings held at the city hall are creating widespread interest. Since the three lady officers came over thirty people have professed conversion. Good crowds are attending these meetings continually. At the watch night service about one hundred and seventy-five people took part Last Sunday's meetings were the best ever since the army opened up thier work here. Monday night and Tuesnight night good crowds were present and much interest manifested in the number that came forward.

Many are testifying to the good that they are receiving. One man was in the meeting Tuesday night that hadn't been in a church for fifteen years Over fifty people have professed toward leading a better life since the army opened up on the 22nd of October.

Overwork Killing Us

In the Great Struggle for Wealth and Position We Are Becoming Weaker Than Our Forefathers.

By the cares of business and social life we use up or waste away the most vital elements of the human body before we realize our weak and run down condition. It seizes on us so quietly at first that little or no attention is paid to the symptoms, which commence with a queer, bewildering sensation in the head, later the power to concentrate the thoughts, so necessary to brain workers, is lost. Following this will come deficient sight or blurred vision, muscular weakness and a dull pain in the small of the back. There is a tendency to tire easily; the digestion becomes impaired; the temper irritable; spirits depressed, ending in complete lack of confidence and a general feeling of disgust at our own weakness. When the blood and nerve forces have been wasted by disease, overwork, worry, brain-tire, high living, dissipation or other bad habits, Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Food rebuilds the system by replacing the same substances that have been lost. Police Court.

Mayor Rinner has had two very busy days as a result of the two raids made on the house of Della Ross on Walnut street and the arrest of John Billman. The cases have all been disposed of Wednesday morning Della Ross' sister, Edith Ross, of Newark, came in and paid her sister's fine and Della was released and went back to Newark. She promised not to come back to Coshocton any more. The young men, who were arrested at the time the house was pulled, were each fined five dollars and costs and released.

William Kyle, who was arrested upon the charge of stealing three five-dollar gold pieces from his brother, pleaded not guilty at his hearing and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury which convenes next Monday.

BATTLESHIP IS KING OF SEA

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Washington, Jan. 4.—The navy department has issued an official statement commenting in detail upon the naval operations in the far eastern war, and giving it as the official opinion of the department that the absolute superiority of the battleship in war has been demonstrated time and again.

LAND FRAUDS
